*Making an international sale is a great achievement !
But carrying out the sale safely and successfully is "a business of details".
Some of the most important details are those which protect your business from a legal point of view.*

- This program will review important points in negotiating international sales contracts as well as steps to take to protect your intellectual property (patents, trademarks and copyrights).
- This program includes key points businesses should consider to ensure compliance with U.S. export regulations.
- In addition, how to reduce risk through the use of INCOTERMS will be reviewed.
